Delicate Colored Crepe de Chine, Trimmed With Lace, For Summer Wear.
Some of the most elegant costumes designed for warm weather wear are of crepe de chine. All colors are employed—pale green, amethyst, mauve, silver gray—and the trimming consists of old gulfure, point de venise and jeweled buttons and buckles. A great deal of taffeta is also worn, combined with plaited gauze, the latter forming flounces and draperies. Mohair composes many pretty gowns and is adorned with heavy lace, applications and fancy buttons. Cloth is used for tailor made gowns, which continue to be as fashionable as ever. The favorite shades are light tones of mastic, sable and dust gray, and the gowns are trimmed with embroidery, coral lace and ornamental buttons. These light cloth gowns, worn with a vest of silk of the same tone and a glimpse of gulfure, are exceedingly fashionable. A collar of white tulle or white gauze may be added.

Plaids are persistently worn in Paris, but it seems to be impossible to force them into general popularity elsewhere, although some very pleasing and fashionable gowns are sometimes composed of them. Plaid ribbons have "taken" very well for millinery purposes, and plaid shirt waists have had a reasonable amount of acceptance, but plaid gowns are not favorites. Shepherd's checks, not only in black and white, but in navy blue, brown, tan or gray and white, have been more fortunate, and many simple but pretty and becoming gowns are made of them. Separate skirts of shepherd's checks, to be worn with shirt waists, have also quite a vogue.

The illustration shows a costume of mauve taffeta with deeper mauve figures. The bodice skirt has three lengthwise straps of moss green ribbon defining the tablier. The straps begin at the waist and terminate at the foot under bows. The bodice, which is fitted at the back and gathered at the waist in front, has a yoke-like collar of white lace and is adorned with three straps of ribbons in front. Each begins, under a bow, at the lower edge of the collar and extends to the waist line. The bodice elbow sleeves are finished with a band and bow of green ribbon, and the draped collar and the belt are also of green ribbon.

Information for Tourists.

A passenger by the last Colonial steamer was met on the dock by a Milesian American friend, who resides in Honolulu. As the pair waited to have the newcomer's gripsack scrawled over with chalk marks by the Customs Inspector at the pier, the steamer's steward asked him: "Do you have much rain here?" "RAINIER me boy, gallons of it, just come up to the Anchor Saloon where they keep it always, clear and cool. We'll just be in time for lunch too and that's the only place in town where they serve it up in proper style with a glass of RAINIER BEER to equilibrate the solids—They went!"

Beer is Food.

Good beer builds up both bone and brawn. It's strengthening—nourishing. The Germans are the greatest beer drinkers. Where is there a harder or more stalwart race of men? Pure beer is beneficial to invalids, bracing to the weary, refreshing to all. "Rainier" a class by itself. Kept freshly tapped or in bottles at the Criterion Saloon.
